

NEW STUFF

This week's essential kit you absolutely

X-DREAM ROCKER WIRELESS GAMING CHAIR
boystuff.co.uk
 There's no comfier way to fight world wars or destroy zombies. Compatible with all major consoles, it boasts 2x surround sound satellite speakers, wireless connectivity and a sleek look. An essential living room fixture.

£830

NIKON V1
nikon.co.uk
 Not the cheapest way to document your antics, but with two engines capable of capturing 600MP/s, it's got bucketloads of quality. It's also quaver-light and with its magnesium alloy frame, it'll take a battering and still look beautiful.

SKY CAR
thumbsupworld.co.uk
 The closest you'll ever get to owning your own flying machine, this is stable and staggeringly easy to fly so there's no veering off course as soon as you set it free, meaning innocent bystanders in the park/your flat should be safe...

£30

GO CYCLE G2R ELECTRIC BIKE
gocycle.com
 At over two-and-a-half grand this will hit your wallet hard, but ball-busting price aside, it's the ultimate transporter, taking you long distances without all that pedalling nonsense.

£2,626

HTC RADAR
htc.com/uk
 As smartphones go, this is a beast. Sporting a colour-rich 4.7-inch 480x800p touchscreen display and a 1GHz processor, this Windows Phone 7- touting blower is easy on the eyes, while the 5MP rear-mounted snapper kicks out cracking pics.

£350

ARCAM rCUBE
arcam.co.uk
 Newly upgraded specs and a nicely downgraded price means the rCube iPod boom box is a whole lot more desirable; a sexy minimal shell, MP3 streaming, Spotify hook-up and 90 watts of real Hi-Fi power means it demands to be heard.

£350

PIERRE CARDIN TABLET
store.pierrecardintablet.co.uk
 For just over £200, you could own this Android 2.2-touting tablet loaded with 512MB of RAM and a 1.0GHz processor. The leather case adds a touch of class to an otherwise bland device.
